

Data – Governance, Privacy and Analytics – Key updates

Companies across the world are working with ever increasing volumes of data and subsequently face both increased risk and opportunities. Companies are both benefitting with value derived from data and struggling to govern and protect it. Regulations are increasing globally as data and technologies in use are more connected than ever. As a result companies have had to revisit and refresh systems and operations for data governance and in parallel are looking to move forward with enhanced data strategies and analytics.

In this seminar, we are going to share with you:

- The key updates on data governance, privacy and security;
- The practical steps in these areas that companies are implementing in their business operations and;
- Demonstrations of how companies are using data analytics and business process automation to help achieve compliance requirements and gain operational efficiencies.
